Snakes and ladders game

Introduction

- According to Work-package No": 6 in ReHeed Project, concerning the Dissemination of the project, Damanshour University team introduced a new game for students named Snakes & Ladders Game with many heritage sites.

Games are usually used in several learning situations and domains, among which is cultural heritage. It must be noticed that Storytelling is used in games regarding cultural places. Games often take a simple form. Therefore, the aim of the inventor of game is to explore the opportunity to communicate cultural content through a narrative-based game, in which it can function with multiple stories.

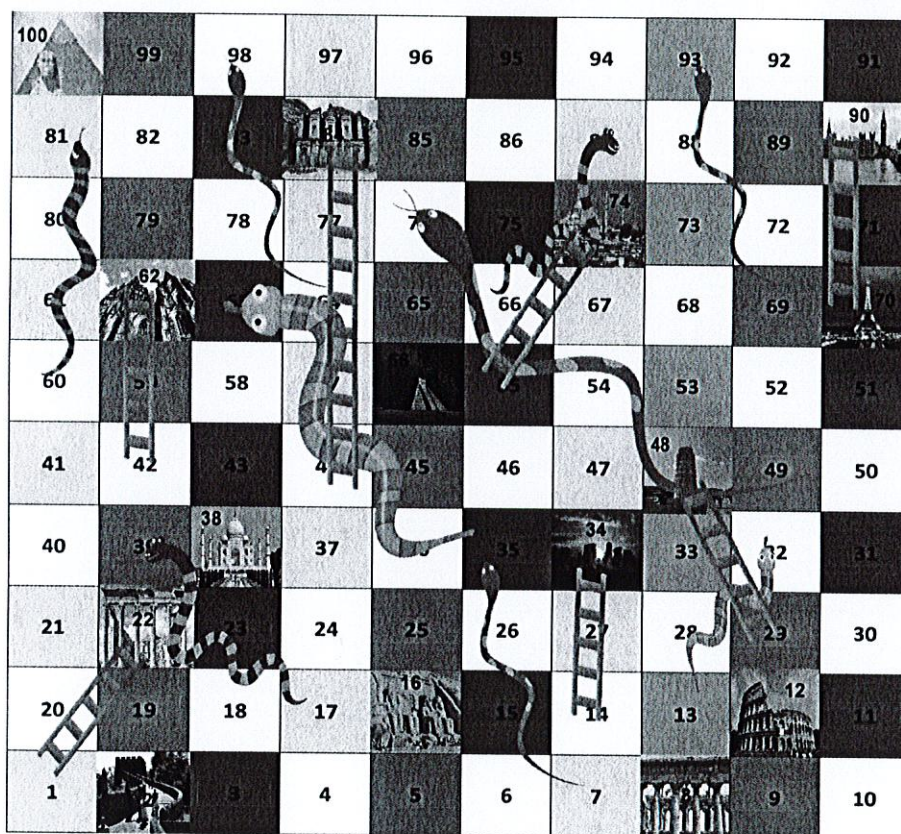

The objective of this game is to train teachers to use games in their educational methods of teaching heritage.

Another essential idea of this simple game is to introduce knowledge with the game itself. This simple game could be used in Classroom, home and everywhere.

Objectives of this game:

- ✚ To raise the heritage awareness for students.
- ✚ To bring cultural heritage closer to a younger user population through interesting, interactive and educational content.
- ✚ By games, there is an indirect way of preservation of cultural heritage to younger generations.

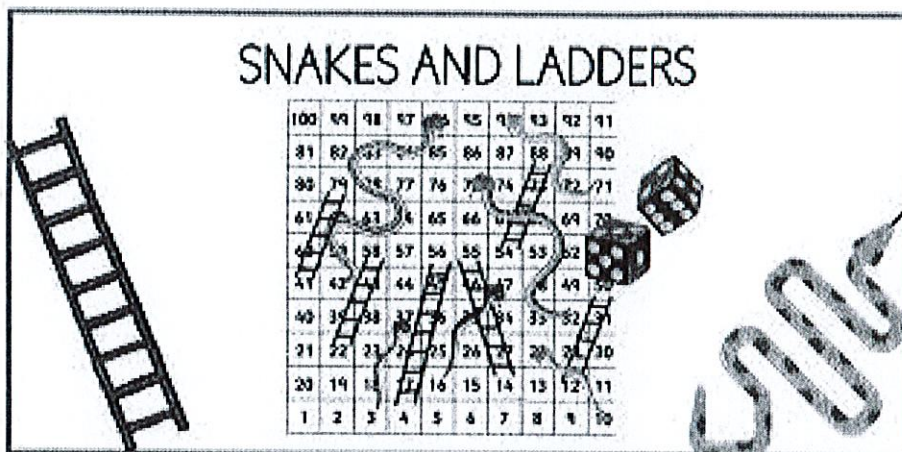

Game on Heritage sites is a way of knowledge and an objectif to preserve and respect Heritage
